network AC

Welcome to Network AC!

Network AC aims to strengthen the position of Dutch architecture centres. This project is a research into project related experience and personal expertise with as target sharing individual knowledge within the field of architecture. Focus point of Network AC is the practice of the more than forty architecture centres and related institutions in the Netherlands.

Professional experience & personal expertise

The target is exchange and ongoing development - in short: lifting up the quality of content, the impact and efficiency of the activities within the field. This research and the publication of the results on the website www.netwerkac.nl are a first step towards an improved accessibility within the network of architectural centres - network AC.

Transfer of knowledge

Network AC is set up as a research into possibilities of bundling expertise and transfer of knowledge of current and future projects. A pilot group of architecture centres, individual experts and representatives of the Dutch Architecture Funds contributes to this project. After an inventory of projects apt for exchange and evolution in 2009 the second, development phase in 2010 results into guidelines for adaptation, takeovers and transformation of projects and expertise. The guidelines are published on www.netwerkac.nl in the form of a format that can be shared and used by the participating centres.
